Bond Issue Proposal Provides Jobs And Improved City Sewer System

Voters To Decide Whether Offer of Federal Aid Will Be Accepted

Funds Will Pay For Drainage Extensions and Changes Long Needed

Editor's Note—Marion voters who go to the primary election Tuesday Aug 13 will vote on two special bond issues—one to raise funds for a new city building and auditorium and the other for a sewer extension program The Star in order to give voters an understanding of the issues is printing two articles. The first dealing with the sewer bond issue appears below The article dealing with the city hall will be published Saturday

By W F BUCHANAN
City Editor Marion Star

When Marion voters go to the polls to cast their votes in the primary Aug 13 they also will decide whether they are willing to put up $55 000 to match a gift of $ 2 000 from the federal government to improve and enlarge the city's sewerage system A ballot for an $88 000 bond issue for this purpose will be handed voters when they enter the polls

The sewer project was planned by the city as part of its share in the huge public works fund created by the federal government to provide useful occupations for thousands of men now on relief rolls

The project is estimated to cost $160 000 with $88 000 provided by the city and $72 000 as an outright gift from the government

To carry at the primary the bond issue for the city's share must receive yes votes from 65 per cent of those voting on the issue

The city's application for the federal grant has already been tentatively approved by state PWA officials at Columbus If the bond issue carries the application will be forwarded to Washington D C for final action Passage of the bond issue however does not absolutely mean that Marion will be given the federal grant as final action lies in the hands of Washington officials But failure of the issue to pass means that the project will die where it now stands

Marion's share of the cost which represents 55 per cent of the total expenditure would be financed through bonds to run for 25 years the last to mature in 1959

Tax Schedule Figured

The bonds will add an average of 90 hundredths of a mill to the city tax rate over a period of 25 years County Auditor Harry V Mounts has certified to city officials This will mean an addition of 90 cents for each $1 000 of valuation to the taxpayers bill For example the tax on a property on the tax duplicate at $1 000 will be increased an average of 60 cents a year The yearly rate however will not be uniform due to decrease in the annual interest bill as bonds are retired For the first year 1936 the rate will be 90 hundredths of a mill It will increase to 93 in 193[illegible] 226 in 1938 222 in 1939 and 25 in 1940 From 1940 on the rate will show a steady decline until it drops to 14 for the last six years The bonds will be retired at the rate of $2 000 a year until 1940 when the amount to be paid off will increase to $4 000 a year

The tax to retire the bonds would be levied outside the 10-mill limit and as a result would not hamper the city government or the city schools in obtaining money for

JUDGE LASHES JURY FOR SCHULTZ VERDICT

Former Beer Baron Freed in Tax Case, Declares He'll Pay

By The Associated Press

MALONE N Y Aug 2—Freed by a country jury which received a bitter tongue-lashing from the court for its verdict Arthur (Dutch Schultz) Flegenheimer was determined today to discharge his income tax obligation to the government.

Shortly after a federal jury decided last night that the former Bronx beer buccaneer was innocent of evading payment of $92 000 in come taxes Schultz said through an attorney We intend to pay

The debt amounts to slightly more than $92 000 including interest and penalties

The verdict came with stunning effect in the court of Judge Frederick H Bryant

The jurors had been deliberating for 28½ hours—one and one half hours more than did the Syracuse jury which last April was discharged after announcing it was hopelessly deadlocked

Tall stern Judge Bryant spoke bitterly to the jury His voice was low and trembling with rage as he said

A verdict such as you have just rendered shakes the confidence of law abiding people You will go home with the satisfaction you have rendered a blow against law enforcement

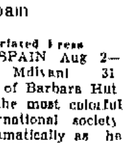
Prince Mdivani Meets Death in Plunge of Auto

Former Husband of Barbara Hutton Victim of Accident in Spain

By The Associated Press

BARCELONA SPAIN Aug 2—Prince Alexis Mdivani 31 divorced husband of Barbara Hutton and one of the most colorful figures of international society died today as dramatically as he lived

The Georgian prince was killed instantly and his pretty young woman companion was injured critically in an automobile accident after he volunteered to drive the woman unidentified who had missed her train to her home in Perpignan France



The couple left the palatial home at Palamos of Prince Mdivani's sister Mrs Jose Maria Sert where the woman had been a house guest shortly before last midnight

Roaring toward the French border Mdivani's powerful roadster struck a culvert in a winding road at Albons Gerona province and plunged into a deep gully

Two hours later just as her last guests were leaving Mrs Sert was notified by telephone that a motorist had found an overturned car and that a body had been taken to an undertaking establishment at Albons

The girl believed to be dying from her injuries was taken to the Gerona Clinical hospital

The prince's sister wife of a noted Spanish mural painter ordered her own car and went immediately to the mortuary

Although Mdivani frequently drove from Paris where he made his headquarters to visit his sister he was little known in Spain except among a few intimate friends with whom he occasionally played polo

The prince's visits especially during his estrangement from Barbara Hutton American heiress to the Woolworth millions now married to Count Court Haugwitz Reventlow were made in greatest secrecy

Prince Alexis Mdivani son of the late Gen Zachary Mdivani former aide-de-camp to Czar Nicholas of Russia was descended from the Mdivani family which acquired the title of prince in 1752

DAVEY HITS O. S. U. SENIOR PROFESSORS IN SPEECH

Says Men in Pay of Big Corporations, Attack Also Directed at Attorney General

By The Associated Press

CHILLICOTHE O Aug 2—The bitter controversy between Gov Davey and officials of Ohio State university flared again today with the state executive charging that senior professors of the university are in the pay of big corporations including public utilities

Gov Davey made the charge last night while addressing 1500 persons at the Clarksburg Field Day

If I had my way I would can the senior professors at Ohio State he said

They work two hours a day five days a week and take three month's vacations each year They write books and articles for pay they lecture for pay and they work for big corporations including the public utilities for pay

The governor's attack came only a few hours after John P Fullen secretary of the university's alumni association asserted Davey had made dishonest assertions about the university's president Dr George W Rightmire

Fullen said in a bulletin to all district alumni go ernors and officers of the alumni clubs asserting that Mr Davey said at Akron Sunday that President Rightmire slipped in a $7500 raise for himself in preparing the university's

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO Aug 2 Mandeville Zenge 26 year-old Canton Mo carpenter sought in the mutilation murder of Dr Walter J Bauer of Cleveland O was seized today in a taxicab garage on the West Side

Capt Daniel Gilbert of the state's attorneys office led a squad into a garage following a taxicab in which Zenge was riding

Although the arrest was made at 3 30 a m it was not announced by Captain Gilbert until nearly 10 30 a m after J Andy Zenge of Canton Mo the suspect's father admitted the man in custody was his son

Zenge hasn't talked yet said Captain Gilbert We are questioning him now and when we have finished a statement will be issued

A hurry call was sent out for Dr Harry Hoffman head of the Cook County behavior clinic He arrived a few minutes later and went into Captain Gilbert's office where Zenge was being questioned

Charles S Dougherty assistant state's attorney said the elder Zenge at first denied that the man in custody was his son but at 10 15 a m admitted he was the man sought

Police of four states had sought Zenge a Canton Mo carpenter since Dr Bauer was found dying early Wednesday morning At an inquest yesterday Bauer's pretty 23 year old widow said she had been engaged to Zenge for seven years prior to her recent marriage to Bauer

Find Suicide Note

Later a suicide note was discovered in which Zenge—his handwriting recognized by Mrs Bauer and relatives—said I am going to jump in the lake He was miserable the note said over losing Louise Bauer's wife

The note made no mention of the

SIX INDICTED BY GRAND JURY

L M McAvoy Free on $1 500 Bond One of Those Against Whom Charges Returned

FIVE CASES ARE IGNORED

Report of Special Session Given Judge Young This Afternoon

Seven indictments against six persons were returned today by the grand jury in a special session in its report to Common Pleas Judge Hector S Young

The jury was in session Thursday and this morning and considered 11 cases one of the smallest lists on the grand jury docket in the last several years No indictments were returned in five cases

Among those indicted was L M McAvoy alias McVAvoy charged with stealing an automobile from an Urbana O automobile dealer and hiding it in a garage on Union street and larceny in two indictments McAvoy who said his home is Buffalo N Y was arrested following an investigation in connection with the finding in June of the stolen automobile and a large quantity of merchandise police believe to have been stolen

A few days later he was freed on $1 500 cash bond the largest ever furnished in the history of the municipal court when he waived examination and was bound over to the grand jury His attorney Fred W Warner previously made an unsuccessful effort to obtain his freedom on a writ habeas corpus

Also indicted were Max Huston 27 and Lewis Wolf 27 both of Logansport Ind arrested in June in connection with the theft of $3[illegible]14 in pennies from a weight machine belonging to the Gallaher Drug store

Others indicted are John Persinger of near Caledonia charged with breaking and entering the Kester Rice residence three miles north of Caledonia last April 20 Robert G Seckel assault with intent to kill and Wilbur Timmons alias Bus Anderson forgery and entering and publishing a forgery

The grand jury did not return indictments against Dale Douce charged with removing mortgaged property Edwin Clark charged with breaking and entering an inhabited dwelling Covel Breaston charged with cutting with intent to wound Audrey Gibson charged with forgery and S A Mason charged with forgery

Those indicted will be arraigned before Judge Young within the next few days

The special session was called by the court to clear the county jail of those awaiting grand jury action Otherwise there would have been no action on the cases until the September term Jurors were the same who served in the May term grand jury

The "Ark" From Arkansas Stops Here On Travels

The original Arkansaw traveler rolled up to transient bureau headquarters on North State street this morning in one of the most remarkable vehicles seen on Marion streets for some time

Driving a stripped Model T Ford chassis with a canopy of old lath Harold Britton of Hot Springs Ark arrived at the headquarters to join his 20 year old wife and five-months old baby daughter Barbara A front right tire and one back tire on the opposite side provided unusually rough going for the driver

Britton said that he had sent his wife and child ahead on the road when his funds—as well as two tires—gave out at Lima early yesterday All day and most of the night was spent in bringing the open air taxi to Marion under its own power

The owner set out this morning on a round of Marion junkyards to see if he could realize anything on the chassis and its burlap-upholstered seats He said that he and his family had started from Arkansas with Buffalo N Y as their destination He formerly worked in a steel plant there and believed he could obtain employment

Whether he and his family go on to the lake city will depend upon what aid he can obtain from relief headquarters he said If he is unable to continue the trip he will work his way back to Arkansas where he was employed in a department store until he lost his job a few months ago

When asked how much he expected to get for the machine he answered Oh Ah may get a deuce or a three spot

Secretary of State Calls Scheme "Brazen Attempt at Corruption of Elections"

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS O Aug 2—Vincent Martin assistant county prosecutor said today he would file charges of violating the election laws against Oliver W Gillette 44 seized in a raid on headquarters of the Ohio Association for tax reduction

Secretary of State George S Myers accused Gillette secretary of the association of perpetrating a wholesale attempt at fraud

A preliminary investigation Martin said indicated that Gillette personally hired eight girls and five boys to copy names from city directories on petitions for a state wide vote on three proposed constitutional amendments

Gillette charged the raid was a frame up and attributed it to chain stores

He contended no offense had been committed but Martin held that the mere copying of the names on the state's official petitions constituted a violation of the election laws

Have Novel Method

City Safety Director Winfield Pesler who led the raid said the officers saw the boys and girls copying the names A novel system was being employed probably for deception purposes The petitions were passed around from one to another of the boys and girls After one signature was placed on a petition it was handed to another boy who wrote in a signature about four spaces lower leaving three blank spaces to be filled in by others in the room

A squad of detectives and agents of Myers office confiscated petitions bearing names copied from

Will Find Way

(Will Rogers Special)

BEVERLY HILLS Calif Aug 2—Here is rather an amazing statement It didn't get much publicity in the press but it was in there It was made by the President (who has access to the records and must know)

Fifty-eight of the richest people in the United States paid no federal tax on 37 per cent of their incomes

This soaking the rich has got two sides to it. Roosevelt gets him a pack of humorously called "brain trusters" to help him devise ways and means of trying to get at this extra 37 per cent. And the rich get them some lawyers that are just as smart as Roosevelt's tribe, and their job is to cook up an antidote So up to now most of the soaking has been done in the papers and not at the cash register

Yours,
Will Rogers.

S F SNYDER HURT IN FARM ACCIDENT

Sanatorium Man's Ankle Fractured When Foot Catches In Rope.

Samuel F Snyder 66 of 194 Gurley avenue outside manager at the Sawyer sanatorium at White Oaks farm suffered a badly fractured and torn ankle when his foot was caught in a hay rope yesterday afternoon while he was helping put hay in one of the barns

The electric driven hoist being used stopped automatically and men who were working with Mr Snyder extricated him from the tangled rope The accident occurred about 3 30 p m at the barn on the Green Camp road

No surgical work is done at the sanatorium and at Mr Snyder's request he was taken to the Frederick C Smith clinic

Clinic officials said this morning that the ankle was nearly twisted off and that Mr Snyder suffered bad cuts and bruises His condition is not regarded as critical.

KENTUCKY SET FOR PRIMARY

Democratic Fight for Governorship Nomination High Spot in Voting Tomorrow

By The Associated Press

FRANKFORT Ky Aug 2—A bitter five cornered fight for the Democratic nomination for governor held the spotlight of voters attention today on the eve of Kentucky's primary election

Some Democrats joined Republicans in predicting the mud throwing character of the Democratic factional strife might result in election of a Republican in November to replace Gov Ruby Laffoon Democrat whose organization is backing Thomas S Rhea former state highway chairman for the nomination

A B (Happy) Chandler 36 year old lieutenant governor whose action in convening the legislature while Gov Laffoon was out of the state resulted in a compulsory primary law, has campaigned to repeal the sales tax

Rhea defends the state 3 per cent sales tax as necessary for relief expenses advocating exemption of necessities

Frederick A Wallis former New York City police commissioner and former collector of the port of New York has asked the nomination promising a business administration of state affairs

In the Republican contest Judge King Swope of Lexington has the formal indorsement of the state party organization Opposing him are Judge D M Bingham of Pineville and Sam Hurst of Beattyville

The two high candidates in each race go into a run off primary next month unless one has a majority in the primary tomorrow Ballot counting starts at 10 a m Monday

GASCO TEAM CLIMBS INTO SECOND PLACE

the circuit standing after yesterday's twilight games

The Gasmen scored the climb after being slapped around in recent battles having a protest allowed against them and playing below their usual form by turning back to Hamburger Inn 5 to 0, at Garfield park Gasco was aided in its drive by the Huber club which upset Walters & Diehennett 4 to 3 in a fast game at Lincoln park The defeat of the Steam Shovel team by the Silk Mill also aided the Gasmen's cause

In the third game of the twilight round Pollak Steel company scored its first win of the season downing the Axe Funeral Home 7 to 5 at President field

Dale Schwaderer Gasco hurler pitched his second two-hit performance of the week at Garfield Don Penry was the hitting star of the game pounding out a home run in the third with two runners on base Jerry Nelmeyer and Schwaderer gained two hits apiece His first two-hit game was with the First Reformed team earlier this week

Huber turned on with a three run rally in the sixth to break a 1 1 deadlock at Lincoln A total of seven runs were scored in the game on four hits Errors and walks paved the way for tallies The winners cut short a W & D rally in the seventh after two runs were scored Roy Walters was knocked out by one of Benny Crabtree's pitches when the ball ran up the bat and hit Walters in the eye as he was attempting to bunt

Pollak overcame a five run lead to score seven runs in the last two innings against the Axe team Don Lindsey hit a homer with two men on bases in the seventh

Davey Told $209,224 Could Be Saved in Finance Department

PURCHASE PLAN IS HIT

Adequate Control Lacking, Survey Group Says; Eighth in Series of Reports

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS O Aug 2—The Ohio government survey committee reported today that no adequate control of purchases exists in the division of purchasing and printing of the state finance department.

It informed Gov Davey that economies totalling $209,224 a year could be effected by executive action and advocated utilization of the prisoners at Ohio penitentiary to do most of the state's printing

"The superintendent of purchases and printing functions more as an order clerk than as a real purchasing agent stated the report prepared under the direction of Col C O Sherrill

It was the eighth survey finding turned over to the governor by the committee made up of 140 business experts To date they have recommended economies totalling $4 204 480

C O Sherrill estimated $5 000 000 a year could be saved if the recommendations are carried out Gov Davey has insisted that because of political factors many suggested changes are impractical

The committee recommended an increase of $3 940 over the 1935 appropriation of $20 060 for the purchases and printing division in order to carry out changes made in nine specific recommendations

It urged a $63 084 decrease in the appropriation for the Ohio state bindery and $148 500 decrease in unbudgeted items

Concerning the purchasing division the report said whatever an other department orders and specifies is usually procured In general it can be said that no adequate control of purchases exists here

Principal recommendations and the amount of possible savings include

Transfer the state bindery and paper stock warehouse to Ohio penitentiary consolidate with printing plant there and utilize services of idle inmates savings $63 084

Do all printing in penitentiary that which can not be done there award to commercial printers on a competitive basis saving $100 000

The report urged installation of a purchase price record which it said is totally lacking at present

It stated that the purchasing division of the finance department made only $1 870 000 in purchases in 1934 compared to $7 276 000 made by the state highway purchasing division

The finance department purchasing offices makes purchases for all state department except the highway and liquor control

PENSION HEAD UNDER ATTACK

Disputes Over Appointments Break Out in Division for Aid of Aged.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 2—The office of Henry W. Berrodin, chief of the state division of aid for the aged, was under fire from two quarters today as the result of disputes over appointments in branch offices.

At Elyria, Oscar G. Dunn, Lorain county commissioner, charged the pension administration was playing politics when it dismissed Mrs. Mary Brandt, an assistant in the county office.

At Steubenville, members of the county pension board took exception to the appointment of Miss Sue Rainsberg, an office assistant, on the ground that she never took a civil service examination.

Dunn, a Republican, called Berrodin by telephone yesterday and told him if the department was going to play politics, it had better arrange to move its office out of the Lorain county courthouse.

While a letter from Berrodin to Mrs. Brandt, notifying her of her dismissal, indicated it was in the interest of economy, Dunn described the act as a political maneuver to eliminate Republicans from the department.

Dunn asserted Berrodin appointed Mrs. Alma Tyson to the permanent position of investigator although she, a Democrat, received a grade of 72.5 in recent civil service tests, while Mrs. Brandt was graded [illegible].

Dunn said department regulations give county commissioners the right to make appointments and set salaries, with the state division reserving the right to reject the appointments. "We submitted a list of acceptable applicants, but this was apparently ignored," he added.

The Jefferson county pension administration office in Jefferson county was taken over by the state division yesterday as the result of the dispute over the appointment of Miss Rainsberg.

Berrodin said the objection to the appointment was based on a "factional dispute."

NOSE FAILS HIM

Liquor Sleuth Trails Mash and Finds He's Wrong

By The Associated Press

MIDDLETOWN, O., Aug. 2—H. O. Girard, state liquor enforcement officer, may do more than "follow his nose" the next time.

Girard sought aid of police here, saying he was on the trail of a farmer transporting mash. Patrolman Harvey Kurth was assigned to accompany him. Together they trailed a truck for several miles, then stopped it.

Girard was right: The farmer was hauling mash, but made plain he had obtained it in Cincinnati and merely was taking it home to his hogs.

operating cost which must come within the 10-mill limit.

It is estimated that [illegible] men would be given employment for a period of five months and that an additional [illegible] men indirectly would be given work for a like period in the manufacture of material and supplies.

Employment Is Primary Aim

As the purpose of the government in making such grant is to relieve unemployment the assignment of workers to jobs on the project will be made by the federal employment agency here where all relief clients are registered. According to Fred B Scherff manager of the agency all such assignments will be based on the qualifications and needs of the workmen. As it is a PWA project the prevailing wage rate will be paid.

Time of starting work on the project can not be definitely fixed at this time. It will depend on the speed with which Washington officials act on the application and the usual period required for local officials to prepare and advertise the bond issue for sale.

To Remedy Defects

In preparing the application city officials pointed to two primary needs of the program—to relieve unsanitary conditions resulting from storm water sewers carrying house sewage and to remedy inadequate sewer facilities in several sections of the city.

The program can be divided mainly into four major projects. They are (1) an intercepting sewer between the Silver street storm sewer and the West Center street sanitary sewer (2) a sanitary line from Oakland Heights to the West Center street sanitary trunk sewer with an intercepting line connecting the Columbia street storm line (3) an enlarged storm sewer system in the East End to drain surface water south to the Quaqua ditch and (4) an extension of the main sanitary sewer on East Church and Center streets between Forest and Jefferson streets.

The new sewers are designed to remove sewage from the storm sewers and provide a natural drainage southward for surface water in the East End.

Project No 1 will connect the Silver street storm sewer at the Silver street school extend southward on Niles street to Kenton avenue thence southeast to Cayuga street and south to the Center street sanitary line. The sewer will be an 15 inch line 1000 feet in length.

The purpose of this line is to pick up the dry weather flow of sewage in the Silver street storm sewer and carry it to the Center street sanitary trunk line that runs directly to the sewage treatment works.

All storm water trunk sewers in the city carry a large amount of sewage because many house sanitary sewers have been illegally tapped into storm water rather than sanitary lines. In rainy weather this condition is not particularly bothersome but in dry weather the Silver street line dumps a large amount of refuse into the Little Scioto river creating a condition that has long brought objections from local and state health authorities. In dry weather this flow will automatically be diverted through the new sewer to the Center street sanitary line by specially constructed valves. In wet weather however when the sewage is so diluted as to be of little consequence the flow will continue westward into the Little Scioto river.

Sections Inadequately Serviced

Project No 2 is designed to provide sanitary and storm sewer service for a large area in the west and southwest section of the city now without such facilities and to improve service for some sections chiefly in Oakland Heights.

The southwest section of the city from Latourette street west and including the western part of Oakland Heights and territory south of the Sawyer road has no sanitary sewers and only a few small storm sewers.

The proposed line will extend from Woodrow avenue down Clinton street to the West Center street sanitary trunk line. It will relieve unsanitary conditions that are caused by the overflow of an Oakland Heights septic tank originally built to serve six houses but now serving 29. Raw overflow from this tank empties into an open ditch.

Another part of this project is the construction of an intercepting line from the end of the Columbia street storm line about the end of Fies avenue to the proposed sanitary line on Clinton street. This intercepting line will serve the same purpose for the Columbia street storm line that the Niles street intercepter will for the Silver street sewer. The Columbia street storm sewer, because of illegal house taps now dumps raw sewage into the Columbia street open ditch. This condition will be removed by the proposed intercepter.

Another part of this project is the construction of a storm sewer over the sanitary sewer from Woodrow avenue to the Columbia street open ditch near the southwest corner of the Marion Steam Shovel Co property.

The Clinton street project anticipates the eventual extension of both the sanitary and storm sewers southward to serve an area when future development demands.

Relief for Eastern Section

The third project, the storm sewer leading into the Quaqua ditch, is designed to eliminate the flooding of cellars and streets which on occasions has bothered the eastern section of the city after heavy rains. Under the present sewer system all surface water from the East End is carried entirely across the city through the Columbia street storm sewer. The proposed project will give this area drainage to the south, its natural course.

A main line will extend from Indiana avenue south in an alley between Reed avenue and Forest street to the Quaqua ditch, a distance of [illegible] feet. It will [illegible] storm [illegible] between Reed avenue and [illegible] a drainage of about [illegible] acres of territory. This will also be a great benefit to the Columbia street sewer as the Indiana avenue line is an eastern tributary of the Columbia street line. The proposed line will drain an area bounded on the north by the Big Four and Erie tracks on the west by Barnhart street and Reed avenue and on the east by the corporation line.

Another division of this project calls for construction of new sewers in Church and Center streets between Reed and Kenmore avenues.

In the future this new system can be extended northward across the railroad tracks to tap a large territory part of which is now inadequately served by the Silver street storm sewer.

Main Line Extension

The fourth project is merely an extension of the main sanitary trunk line and will extend from the first manhole west of the east end of Church street east to Charles street, north to Center street and east to Jefferson street. It will be 1750 feet in length and will consist of a [illegible] inch pipe. This section of sewer was originally installed by a previous administration about [illegible] years ago but never has been used because of lack of finances.

This line when connected to the main trunk will provide better outlets for the area which it directly serves and also will provide for future extension of the line northward on Jefferson street across the tracks to the north east section. A large part of this section is not served by the Silver street line because of the shallow depth of the pipe.

—and THANKS!

SINCE we got up enough nerve to run our pictures in the paper and to talk about our service station business we sure have heard a lot of nice things, as well as being unusually busy.

It seems that not only have all our old friends and customers continued to let us fill up the tanks of their cars with that dependable LINCO gasoline but we've been getting acquainted with a lot of new faces. Apparently there are many motorists in these parts who prefer to deal with the bosses themselves.

To those of you who have put the okay on LINCO gasoline and oil and the way we dispense them we say "Thanks!" You'll find LINCO products always that good and our personal service always that efficient and interested. For what's the use of calling our business a service station if we don't give real service? You keep on showing your good will friends and we'll guarantee you can count on us showing ours.

BROWN ADDRESSES MT. GILEAD CLUB

Marion C. of C. Secretary Speaks Before Kiwanians

W. D. Brown, secretary of the Marion Chamber of Commerce, addressed approximately 20 members of the Mt. Gilead Kiwanis club at their weekly luncheon yesterday at the Globe hotel

Mr. Brown's subject was "Community Cooperation." He stressed how much it means to a community, large or small, to have the proper cooperation and spirit among its citizens, and the pleasure to be derived in service to one's town or city

W. O. Moore, superintendent of the Upper Sandusky schools for the last 12 years will speak at the Kiwanis luncheon Aug 8, I. B White, secretary of the club, announced.

telephone and city directories of a half-dozen Ohio cities. Gillette was held in jail overnight.

"The petitions had not been notarized not filed with the secretary of state, and were not going to be filed," Gillette asserted. "The signatures have to be filed first before any offense is committed."

He contended that he had 219,000 bona fide signatures—sufficient to bring a proposed tax amendment to a referendum.

The signatures copied by the girls and boys, who were released by police after questioning, Gillette said were being "held for future reference — save for next year."

Myers termed the scheme of obtaining the signatures "the most brazen attempt at corruption of elections I have over encountered."

The deadline for filing the petitions is next Wednesday.

Myers said Gillette appeared at his office yesterday, inquired about the deadline and said "You needn't be afraid of our petitions They will be 100 per cent perfect."

Police made the raid on a tip.

On the petitions they found were listed the names of Gillette, R. L. Kline, Columbus, W. C Turner, Van Wert, Elmer Brunner, Hamilton, and Frank Stewart, Youngstown, as a committee to represent the petitioners.

Gillette said the association had a membership of 15,000 and that anyone could join by paying dues of $2 for three years. He said solicitors for new members gets 70 per cent of the dues and he the rest.

Prosecutor Gets Case

Police were given the names of F. W. Cock and Lewis M Cooper, both of Cleveland, as solicitors. Myers turned the case over to Franklin County Prosecutor Donald J. Hoskins.

The petitions called for a vote on these proposed constitutional amendments.

To prohibit taxing of real estate and personal property and in lieu thereof to provide a gross income tax on incomes of more than $1,200 a year.

To provide for licensing of all motor vehicles for the entire life of the vehicle at a fee of $1.

To impose a chain store tax of $2 on the first store and double the previous amount for each store over one.

LEAGUE HEADS WORK ON PEACE FORMULA

in an effort to agree on the phraseology of the text of the formula. Some of Mussolini's objections had to do with the wording and punctuation of the text.

More serious however, was the report that Mussolini still was opposed to fixing a definite date for the council to discuss the Italo-Ethiopian dispute if political negotiations among Great Britain, France and Italy, as provided in the formula, failed to solve the problem.

Laval indicated a complete accord had been reached concerning the method for resuming the arbitration of the frontier clashes which brought the present crisis to its head.

It was reliably learned that the Ethiopian delegation, however, is dissatisfied with the formula in its present shape.

Laval announced he was conferring with Anthony Eden, British minister for League of Nations affairs and the third framer of the formula, and subsequently hoped to confer with Tecle Hawariate, the Ethiopian representative.

Observers regarded the formula as a distinct concession to Italy.

Martial Law Likely For Addis Ababa

(Copyright, 1935, By The Associated Press)

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, Aug. 2—Emperor Haile Selassie's advisers were authoritatively reported today considering martial law for Addis Ababa to control the thousands of wild troops pouring into the capital to enlist for possible action against Italy

As Wolzero Asagadatch, daughter of Commander Dedjazmatch Haptemikael, called upon Ethiopia's women to take up arms for their country, measures were taken to secure the capital's order in the event of hostilities. Two mayors and two police chiefs were named.

The government rushed armed guards out to defend railway bridges after stones on the rails derailed a car. A Dodecanesian employe of the railway, an Italian subject, was killed.

HITS TESTIMONY OF TREASURER ON BILL

Congressman Says Morgenthau "Ashamed of" Tax Bill or Couldn't Analyze It.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug 2—An assertion that Secretary Morgenthau either was ashamed of the $275,000,000 tax bill or lacked the ability to analyze it was made in house debate on the measure today by Representative Treadway, Republican of Massachusetts.

Treadway quoted Morgenthau's testimony yesterday before the senate finance committee when the secretary refused to condemn or approve the house ways and means committee's bill, and then added

"Either he was ashamed of it or he couldn't analyze it I think he couldn't."

The Massachusetts Republican spoke after Representative Samuel B. Hill, Democrat of Washington, had frankly told the house that Democratic ways and means committeemen wrote the bill without consulting members of the minority party

"The responsibility was ours" Hill said "We knew from the beginning that they (Republicans) opposed the legislation and we accepted the job"

Leaders were striving to get the bill through by tomorrow night, but were receiving little cooperation. Only 30 members were present as the house met at 10 a m, two hours earlier than usual.

There was a possibility the debate would close in time to permit a vote before nightfall on the provision to increase surtaxes on personal incomes in excess of $50,000 a year Members of a liberal bloc are seeking to make the increases apply to all incomes in excess of $5,000 Democratic leaders were saying privately, however, that the bill would pass without major changes.

DEATH OF UTILITY BILL IS PREDICTED

tle the angry quarrel about compulsory dissolution of holding companies called "unnecessary."

A chasm wider than ever separates the senate and house conferees on the measures as the result of the house action yesterday.

After a debate broken by shouts, jeers and applause, that chamber again voted down compulsory abolition, 210 to 155 and then proceeded to aim another blow in the administration's direction.

By a vote of 183 to 172, it instructed its conferees to insist, if they deem it desirable, on exclusion of all outsiders from the conferences intended to iron out differences in the utility bill as passed some time ago by senate and house

The members had in mind Ben Cohen, a Roosevelt administration aid whom the senatorial conferees have insisted on bringing to the conferences. Most of the senate conferees are in favor of mandatory abolition, a provision which the senate passed only to have it struck out by the house.

The senate lobby committee, after producing a string of disclosures which the Roosevelt forces vainly counted upon to swing the house to its side, has adjourned until next week.

The latest of its disclosures was an admission by E. P. Cramer, Plainfield, N. J. advertising man, that he wrote a letter to C. E. Groesbeck, chairman of the board of Electric Bond & Share, a holding company, suggesting a "whispering campaign" that President Roosevelt was insane.

Groesbeck issued a statement saying he had never heard of Cramer or the letter.

Fletcher, Truax Support President

Brooks Fletcher of Marion, congressman from the Eighth district, and Charles V. Truax of Bucyrus, Ohio congressman-at-large, were among the four Ohio representatives who voted in support of President Roosevelt on the "death clause" in the utility bill yesterday, The Associated Press reported.

Ohio members of the house voted 15 to four against the death clause Other Ohio congressmen voted as follows: Democrats for: Crosser and Young. Democrats against. Ashbrook, Duffey, Flesinger, Harlan, Imhoff, Kloeb, Polk, Secrest, Thom.

Republicans against: Bolton, Cooper, Hess, Hollister, Jenkins, Marshall.

POLICE SEIZE KILLER SUSPECT IN CHICAGO

brutal attack on Bauer. Bauer told police he was abducted in Ann Arbor, Mich, where he was a summer student at the state university pending his return to his faculty post in the Kirksville, Mo, college of osteopathy and surgery.

Police Capt. John Stege at once branded the note a hoax. Stege said it was a ruse to throw police off the track.

The note was left behind in a cab which Zenge—identified by the driver through a photograph—took to navy pier Lake Michigan. About 10:45 o'clock Wednesday night while the driver waited, Zenge vanished in the gloom of the pier The driver turned the note, along with clothes bearing what police said were "unmistakeable blood stains, over to police.

Dougherty directed the questioning of Zenge about the mutilation of Dr. Bauer The finger of suspicion was pointed at Zenge by dying statements made by Dr. Bauer, by Mrs. Bauer's identification of Zenge as her former sweetheart and the description of Dr. Bauer's assailant who was seen by several persons as he fled after the emasculation performed deftly with a common penknife.

GOVERNMENT NOT TO APPEAL VERDICT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2—Attorney General Cummings said today an appeal will not be taken in the government's anti-trust case against the Republic Steel corporation the Corrigan-McKinney Steel company and four other corporations.

A federal district court in northern Ohio earlier this year denied the government's request that the companies be prevented from making an agreement allegedly in violation of the Clayton anti-trust act.

SUSPENDED FINES GIVEN YOUNG MEN

Five young men were given suspended fines of $25 and costs in municipal court this morning when they pleaded guilty to charges of disorderly conduct The youths were playing cards on the back porch of an abandoned home at the corner of Silver street and Scranton avenue when they were arrested by Acting Day Captain Fred Norton, Motorcycle Patrolman Henry Tong and Patrolman Bert Yoakam late yesterday afternoon.

Seven youths, two 16 years old, two 15, two 13 and one 12 were also arrested and taken to the juvenile detention home Judge Oscar Gast said this morning that no testimony was given to show that the younger boys were engaged in the card game and he released them after giving them an oral rebuke.

The five young men arrested are C D Leonard, 25, of 800 Silver street, Odill Daniel, 21, of 845 Kenton avenue, Paul Eymon, 22, of 527 Lee street Raymond Coy, 20 of 428 Thompson street and Paul Justice, 22, of 375 Thompson street.

NO ACTION SEEN IN "WHISPERING DRIVE"

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug 2 — The White House indicated today that no action would be taken against E. P. Cramer, Plainfield, N. J., advertising man, who testified yesterday to the senate lobby committee that he had suggested a "whispering campaign" that President Roosevelt was insane.

The President himself has taken no recognition of the testimony.

Legal experts believe criminal action could be instituted under the libel law, but apparently this is not going to be done

It was indicated the matter would be dropped

Cramer testified he was "ashamed" of what he had done and had no basis for any belief that the President was insane.

A 17-year-old daughter of Representative Patton, Democrat of Texas testified to the house rules committee today that E. V. Sellers, NRA employe, had told her he knew a box that her father took from the hotel room of John W. Carpenter, Texas utilities officials, contained cigars.

Miss Bonnie Patton quoted Sellers as telling her after seeing newspaper headlines about the box "That's absurd I guess I know that was cigars in that box. I smoked some of them myself."

Previously, Sellers had denied smoking any of them.

It has been testified Patton took the box from the hotel room before the house voted on the utility bill. Patton has said it contained cigars.

Leo Brennan, a clerk of a hotel where Sellers lived here, testified that Representative Blanton, Democrat of Texas, day before yesterday settled the former's bill in cash amounting to $60 and some cents

PRESIDENT'S BOND PROPOSAL SCORED

Crusader Leader Assails Suggested Tax On Government Securities

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Aug 2—President Roosevelt's advocacy of a constitutional amendment permitting taxation of government bonds was the subject of an attack today by Fred G. Clark, national commander of the Crusaders.

"It would appear from the press reports that the President thinks that a person who buys government securities is actually conspiring against the government to evade taxes" Clark said in a statement.

The Crusaders commander referred to the President's comment Wednesday that 58 per cent of the richest persons in the United States paid no federal tax in 1932 on 37 per cent of their income, principally because of investments in tax exempt securities.

NOTE EXCHANGE ON FLAG RIPPING ENDS

U. S. Sends German Diplomat Letter Regretting Bremen Incident.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug 2—The diplomatic exchange of notes with the German government over the ripping of the Nazi flag from the liner Bremen at New York was complete today with a state department reply that the incident "was in no sense due to neglect on the part of American authorities."

No apology had been demanded and none was forthcoming in the answer yesterday to Charge D'affairs Rudolf Leitner by Acting Secretary William Phillips

The note did say however that "it is unfortunate that, in spite of the sincere efforts of the police to prevent any disorder whatever, the German national emblem should during the disturbance which took place, not have received that respect to which it is entitled"

The German government had instructed Herr Leitner to "make the most emphatic protest against this serious insult to the German national emblem," and expressed the expectation that everything would be done by the American authorities to punish the guilty

Phillips' reply said the persons implicated in the disorder aboard the ship last Friday "have been apprehended and are being held for trial."

STATEMENT READ AT MURDER TRIAL

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, Aug. 2—A statement by Jean Miller describing a "strip poker" and drinking party in which she alleged Howard Carter Dickinson took part a few hours before he was shot to death here June 26 was read today at the trial of four persons charged with his murder

The statement said Dickinson, a New York attorney, participated in the party with the Miller woman, William Lee Ferris, and Florence and Loretta Jackson, the four defendants in Ferris' hotel room

COMMUNISTS ADOPT HANDS-OFF POLICY

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, Aug. 2—The seventh Communist Internationale adopted today the principle of non-interference in domestic affairs of individual, national communist parties—a step calculated to remove sore spots in international relations caused by a suspicion that communist activities are directed from Moscow.

The congress adopted a resolution directing the executive committee to observe this policy as a rule and to concentrate its attention on questions of the world workers movement as a whole.

The experience gained by the world movement should be placed at the disposal of individual communist parties, the resolution said, but "arbitrary transfer of experience from one country to another" should be avoided.

COURTS ACT ON BURGLARY CASE

Juvenile and Municipal Judges Pass on Thefts Involving Seven Men, Boys.

Two youths were returned to the boys' industrial school at Lancaster, O., one man was bound over to the grand jury and a fourth pleaded not guilty in municipal court yesterday as the police cleared up the burglary of the Maniaci grocery at 795 Silver street and the theft of a child's automobile from the Charles H. Isa's residence on Vernon Heights boulevard Sunday night.

David Schroll, 19 of 171 St Clair street, pleaded not guilty to a charge of breaking and entering and Judge W. R Martin set his hearing for Tuesday at 2 p. m. Schroll was the only one of the five arraigned in municipal court in connection with the crimes to enter a not guilty plea.

LeRoy Austin, 18, of 503 Davids street, was bound over to the grand jury by Judge Martin when he reversed a not guilty plea to guilty. Austin was also charged with breaking and entering His bond was set at $1,000

Two youths, Floyd Crissinger, 17 of 374 Commercial street and John Krautter, 17, of 322 Oliver street, were returned to the Lancaster Industrial school on violation of paroles received April 6. They will probably be kept in Lancaster nine months or a year, Judge Oscar Gast of the juvenile court said today.

Crissinger was implicated in the theft of the toy automobile and Krauter in the burglary of the Silver street grocery theft Sunday night.

Disposition of the four brings a total of seven who have been before authorities in connection with the two crimes Floyd Apthorpe 22, of 342 Owens street and Harold Williams, 23, of 595 West Center street were sentenced to 30 days in the county jail by Judge Martin Wednesday after they entered pleas of guilty to petit larceny charges

Milton Apthorpe's sentence was reserved after he pleaded guilty to charges of receiving stolen property A carton of cigarets said to have been stolen in the grocery burglary was found in his possession when police arrested him late Monday night.

Next Dash of English Auto Daredevils To Be on Utah Salt Flats.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Aug. 2—Barring a serious hitch in present plans, Sir Malcolm Campbell will sail on Aug 21, for the United States and an attempt to boost his own world automobile speed record on Utah's salt flats.

Sir Malcolm and his huge racer, Bluebird, with which he established the present land record of 276.816 miles per hour at Daytona Beach, Fla., early this year, will make the trans-Atlantic crossing on the Majestic.

Sailing at the same time will be another British racing pilot, Captain George Eyston, who plans an assault on all long distance records with a new car capable of 200 miles an hour.

The recent successful record attempts of still another British sportsman, John Cobb, coupled with Cobb's glowing tribute to Bonneville salt flats course influenced Campell to speed up his preparation for a new record attempt.

UNKNOWN'S STORY BOUGHT FOR MOVIES

By International News Service

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — One of those "believe it or not" occurences so frequent in film doings, was reported by director Irving Cummings who told of purchasing on sight a story written by an unknown Chicago stenographer. The girl Mayme Duffy, entitled her submittance: "My Father's House." Unknown writers are generally accredited roughly with a one-ten-thousand chance of selling story material here.

WOMAN'S SCREAMS CURE DEAFNESS

By International News Service

LISBON—Screaming cured the deafness of a 60-year-old widow, Maria Majaquina, widow of an old fisherman of Praia de Pedrogao in the north of Portugal.

She became deaf when her husband was drowned 10 years ago. The local doctor then told her that she could never be cured.

Watching fishing trawlers entering port one day, she saw the boat containing her son overturn. To see him striking out for his life was too much for her. She began to scream. When he reached land safely, she fainted and was taken to hospital.

Reviving, the old woman astonished everyone around her by saying, "I can hear you."

NEW G-MAN FILM AT PALACE CALLED BEST OF SERIES

Fewer machine guns and more real examples of department of justice work make "Men Without Names" which opened at the Palace yesterday the best of the G-men pictures to date. The film is the third picture dealing with the federal agents to be shown in the last six weeks.

Fred MacMurray as the "fed" whose tongue is always in his cheek is convincing as a G-man. MacMurray was Claudette Colbert's ship's new reporter-boy-friend of "The Gilded Lily."

As to the actual plot of the picture, little distinguishes it from "G-Men" in "Public Enemy No 1." The essential facts of a federal agent tracking down a gang of desperadoes have formed the main theme for all the films in the cycle. What does distinguish the picture, however, is the splendid examples of how a "fed" goes about getting his man as he works under the watchful eye of Washington authorities.

"Men Without Names" offers theater goers an opportunity to learn many of the little tricks that have been used by the department of justice agents to track down public enemies.

The "Men Without Names" title might be interpreted to mean that the picture lacks a cast of "big name" stars as were found in "Public Hero No. 1." Despite the absence of such well-known figures as Lionel Barrymore and Chester Morris, the picture is nonetheless well acted. MacMurray, a comparative newcomer, is a splendid actor and a likeable looking federal agent. Madge Evans, whose beauty lends much more to the picture than her acting, supplies the sweetheart angle. Not as a gangster's sister nor as a G-man's sisters, she is instead the sister of David Holt, youthful star who does a great job of bringing MacMurray and Miss Evans together in the film. Lynne Overman's pseudo-comic role is one of the highlights of the film.

A Popeye cartoon, several shorts and a newsreel completes the bill which runs through Saturday.—C. M. H.

market news to menu- arrival of the first new Florida grape- first shipment of which only yesterday after- on the grapefruit and the quality of excellent.

cantaloupes have come week and the supply strong for the com- dealers say. California grapes and the red malga also be available next sweet potatoes and grown potatoes are on along with Calif- and Carolina peaches. who plan to can peaches, the dealers announce that the Georgia peaches have come to an end on the local markets, but the Carolina and California peaches, in now, and the Tennessee, Illinois and northern Ohio peaches which will follow will keep an ample supply of the fruit on the market until well into September.

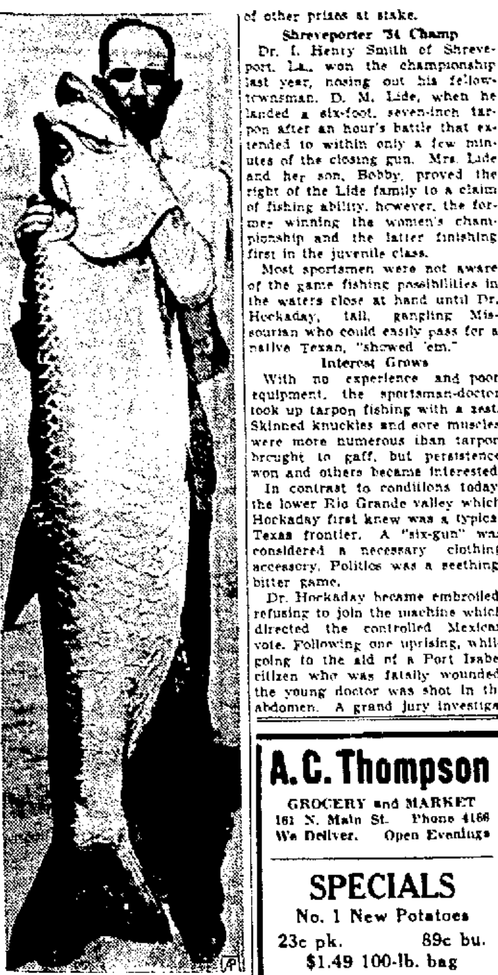
Chief among the home grown articles available now is sweet corn which is plentiful and good this year. The corn is cheaper than last week and will be cheaper as the weeks pass. Celery, beans, beets, carrots and apples are the other home grown vegetables which still are available in large quantities.

To those who like novelty fruits, the California nectrines have arrived. The nectrine is a cross between a peach and a plum. California plums are also on the market now.

An interesting paradox was found on the market last week in that the home grown produce which is plentiful and inexpensive was slow moving and the out-of-state fruits and vegetables which have been fairly high in cost sold rather briskly. Little change is forecast for the coming week by local dealers.

U. S. Fishermen Lured by Country Doctor's 'Rodeo'



Dr. J. A. Hockaday with a six-foot "Silver King" Tarpon.

By The Associated Press

PORT ISABEL, Tex.—Anglers who like 'em big and tough and thrill to a singing line are turning their eyes again to the Lower Rio Grande valley of Texas for the second annual fishing rodeo, Aug. 23-25.

The idea of a fishing rodeo, originated by Dr. J. A. Hockaday of Port Isabel, a country doctor who loves the outdoors, brought 207 contestants here last year.

Sportsmen from points as far away as Chicago are expected here for the contest this year, with a silver tarpon trophy and hundreds of other prizes at stake.

Shreveporter '34 Champ

Dr. I. Henry Smith of Shreveport, La., won the championship last year, nosing out his fellow-townsman, D. M. Lide, when he landed a six-foot, seven-inch tarpon after an hour's battle that extended to within only a few minutes of the closing gun. Mrs. Lide and her son, Bobby, proved the right of the Lide family to a claim of fishing ability, however, the former winning the women's championship and the latter finishing first in the juvenile class.

Most sportsmen were not aware of the game fishing possibilities in the waters close at hand until Dr. Hockaday, tall, gangling Missourian who could easily pass for a native Texan, "showed 'em."

Interest Grows

With no experience and poor equipment, the sportsman-doctor took up tarpon fishing with a zest. Skinned knuckles and sore muscles were more numerous than tarpon brought to gaff, but persistence won and others became interested.

In contrast to conditions today, the lower Rio Grande valley which Hockaday first knew was a typical Texas frontier. A "six-gun" was considered a necessary clothing accessory. Politics was a seething, bitter game.

Dr. Hockaday became embroiled, refusing to join the machine which directed the controlled Mexican vote. Following one uprising, while going to the aid of a Port Isabel citizen who was fatally wounded, the young doctor was shot in the abdomen. A grand jury investigation followed and Texas rangers put the old machine out of power.

Sailfish Count the Most

"In a fishing boat or a hunters' camp, one learns the real truth about a man," Dr. Hockaday says. "It is different from the casual acquaintance of business life.

"I have never had a desire for wealth at the expense of personal pleasure," he declares. "No one 43 years old has had more fun than I have. That is what prompted my choice of the life of a country physician, in preference to that of a city specialist."

A quest for sailfish is expected to furnish one of the new angles of this year's rodeo. This elusive fish head the score sheet netting a contestant 1,000 points. Next on the list is the tarpon. Last year 63 of the big fellows were landed.

Better fishing conditions are expected this year than were found in 1934 with completion of big jetties at the pass, resulting in smoother water and permitting use of smaller boats.

AVOID HASTE IN WPA

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 2—Ohio Works progress administration officials admitted yesterday that the now defunct CWA failed to some extent because of haste, and said delay in getting their program under way has enabled them to perfect their organization. They said they have been working deliberately to make the WPA an efficient machine before it "gets going."

Whipping-Boys.

The country hasn't responded as favorably to wealth taxation as many expected it to respond. President Roosevelt, if he is as closely in touch with public opinion as he should be, must feel he is competing with other [illegible] in the harangues on the evils of bigness.

He chose to speak Wednesday of the fact that 39 of the richest persons in the United States paid no federal income tax in 1932 on 17 per cent of their holdings because of investments in tax-exempt securities. Presumably, he considered that to be alarming.

Perhaps it is. But this is a numerically vast country. There is, consequently, something almost fantastic in what seems at present to be a concentration of administrative attention on a handful of persons who happen to possess unusually large amounts of property and securities.

No great amount of thought is required to perceive that this infinitesimal class of citizens do not deserve the emphasis being placed on them by the social reformers. Their importance, relative to that of the classes below them from the standpoint of wealth, is not great. The government should be able to deal with them without giving an appearance of trying to kill flies with a ball bat.

It is plain even to some who preached the tax problem could be solved by soaking the rich that no such thing is possible. The government could confiscate every penny of every great fortune, if such a thing were practical, and still not be out of the financial woods.

On the whole, it may not be unreasonable to say public opinion is growing weary of the Roosevelt administration's social reform exercises on the backs of a handful of whipping-boys from the upper strata of wealth. Maybe it's social justice and maybe it's good for the country, but there are so many really important things to be done that continued preoccupation with so tiny a phase of the More Abundant Life is beginning to seem pointless.

Pleasing All Sides.

The state department, which would like to please all sides in the teapot tempest over last Friday's international incident in New York harbor, hasn't a remote chance to accomplish any such master stroke of diplomacy.

About the best it can hope to do is to displease all sides equally by doing its hard duty. In this case, that would entail an expression of regret to the German government. No one would be satisfied, but nothing the state department could do would be satisfactory to the bitter groups interested in the incident.

Two wrongs don't make a right. The United States government has no official interest as yet in the policies of the Hitler government, other than that which is defined in commercial treaties. The New York harbor incident, in which the German flag was insulted by persons for whom the United States is nominally responsible, cannot be analyzed by the state department in any way, except as an attack on the German flag. The motive, under the circumstances, has no bearing on the matter. The United States is bound to respect Germany's flag as long as it maintains peaceful relations with the German government.

Germany, it is generally believed, is wrongly persecuting Jews and Catholics. That is private, not official, opinion. The United States has not adopted a policy of persecuting Germans in retaliation. The handful of radicals who disgraced the German flag acted wholly without the government's sanction. That fact should be made known to Germany with a minimum of diplomatic adornment. It's the business of the state department to maintain friendly relations with other governments, not "to placate angry minorities."

Exercising Care.

Thugs, swindlers, racketeers and other undesirables have been given every chance in the world to know that New York City is starting a great war on crime. If they happen to step into the line of fire, it will be their own fault. They were warned.

Thomas E. Dewey, who will conduct the fighting, was sworn in officially the other day. For many weeks he has been getting his outfit ready, hiring assistants all the way from very expensive ones to merely ordinary men anxious to get a share of the fat appropriation at young Mr. Dewey's command.

By exercising care a really intelligent crook should be able to weather the next two years. [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] over and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] safety. How Little?

The Ohio government survey commission has brought the state to attention again with a report in which an annual saving of at least $2,000,000 is recommended for the state highway department. The committee asserts at [illegible] $2,000,000 could be saved in the highway department, whose appropriation for 1935 is $[illegible], if the state wanted to exploit every possibility of economy.

Here is a sidelight on the economy issue. The survey committee's purpose is to determine how little the state's expenditures could be. The jobholders' purpose is to determine how much it is possible to obtain from taxation. Jobholders never reduce public expenses voluntarily.

The aim of the survey, which now has located more than $7,000,000 of savings, is "to attack the tax burden at the roots, to determine what is done with public funds, to study the administration of state activities from the standpoint of good business practice, to consider whether the largest reasonable measure of public weal is being accomplished."

That is, as anybody can see, an ambitious project—so ambitious it is almost sure to be unsuccessful. Taxpayers want the cost of government to be reduced, but relatively few are willing to fight for their desire. Anticipating their apathy, the committee has laid plans for developing an aggressive public opinion.

"This is the genesis of a movement which can become a magnificent achievement," the committee has declared. "It gives promise of being the most forward advance in state government administration that this country has ever known." Not "How much?" but "How little?" is the issue. Ohio is challenged to show whether it really is interested in reducing the cost and increasing the efficiency of its government, or whether it is interested only in talking about the possibilities.

Saved by Cannibals.

Ethiopia seems to be in the predicament of a man fleeing from a lion into the hands of cannibals. The best it can hope for is an extension of time. The cannibals are just as hungry as the lion, but more inclined to stand on ceremony.

There is an outside chance for Ethiopia to defy Italy successfully. One method would be to defeat Italy in direct warfare. The other method would be to get protection from the League of Nations. Unfortunately, the terms of the protection might turn out to be almost as unfavorable as the terms of military defeat.

France and Great Britain, the two major powers in the League of Nations which are vitally interested in Ethiopia, naturally would be eager to retain some measure of control in the country. A British compromise proposal calls for an international mandate over Ethiopia, giving Italy "peaceful penetration" of Ethiopian territory.

Emperor Haile Selassie, who seems to be a capable diplomatist, no doubt is aware of the squeeze play which is being plotted at his expense. He can take his chances with Italy, or he can trust to the prestige of France and Great Britain to deter Italy from doing with bullets and bombs what it could do under an international mandate with commercial exploitation. Emperor Haile cannot be blamed if he doesn't see much difference between giving the lion a meal or throwing Ethiopia on the mercy of cannibals.

George Buckley was standing by when an excited fellow rushed into the gun room of a Madison avenue sporting goods store and asked to see something efficient in shotguns. Adding to the wild and woolly motif was an indirect lighting effect suggesting a purple horizon in the sage brush. Those who went for a few aside chuckles left with gasps of admiration. The guns and saddles were valued at $120,000. The decorator was paid $12,000.

Glancing Backward

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Sunday, Aug. 2, 1925.

F. Mitchell Crary, 29, secretary-treasurer of the Jones Realty Co., died suddenly at his home on Mt. Vernon avenue.

Mrs. Ira Applegate and son Paul and Mrs. Orpha Johnson of Green Camp returned from a visit of several days with friends in Chicago.

A home run by Conroy, hard-hitting catcher for the Marion Athletics, started a rally which won a game at Lincoln park against the Lima Independents, 3-2. Becker pitched for Marion.

W. H. Lusch was elected president of the Kuehner family organization at its annual reunion held at Garfield park.

Rev. A. F. Uphoff gave the sermon at a union service held by nine Marion churches at Calvary Evangelical church. His subject was "Where Is God?"

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Monday, Aug. 2, 1915.

With more than 2,000 prisoners in their possession as a result of fighting during the preceding month, Austro-German forces in Poland were reported driving a wedge through the Russian front which threatened to cripple if not destroy the Czar's main armies.

C. C. Miller of Delaware, trainmaster of the C. D. & M. Electric railway, became superintendent of the Marion street railway lines, succeeding J. M. Boyer, who had resigned.

The clothing store of J. Strelitz Sons was transferred to Jim Dugan, who for many years had been a prominent clothing merchant in Cardington. The store had been operated by the Strelitz family since 1903.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Baysinger were spending the week at Put-in-Bay and Cedar Point.

Mrs. John Juley returned from a visit with Mr. and Mrs. H. C. [illegible] of Dayton.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ray Fry of near Findlay. Mrs. Fry was formerly Miss Louise Priest of Marion.

A cloudburst at Stratford near Delaware flooded the boiler room of the C. D. & M. power plant, forcing shutdown of the plant and stopping service on the interurban line.

Behind The News In

Washington And Wall Street

BY PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2—Bright young legalites of the new deal have made a confidential survey of supreme court opinion on the farm program. They wanted to find out what to expect when the processing tax cases reach the court in the fall.

The result was disheartening. They concluded that it is a reasonable expectation that the court will hold the farm program unconstitutional by a close vote, meaning 5 to 4 or 6 to 3.

Independent legal authorities close to the court figure that the decision will not even be close. They expect a 9 to 0 decision against the original act and do not believe that the AAA amendments now being passed by Congress have changed that prospect materially.

Basis

These forecasts are not based on personal polls of the justices. Anyone who tried that would go to jail for contempt. But you need not attempt it if you will first analyze the published opinions of the justices in previous cases involving the same issues during the last fifteen years. These show that even the New Deal's best legal friends on the court have subscribed to views about interstate commerce and taxation which deny the legal theory on which the processing taxes are based.

The AAA amendments have edged around the objection of delegating authority, but they have not touched the power to tax one class of citizens for the exclusive benefit of another, or the Boston Circuit Court opinion on interstate commerce. The reason is they cannot.

This means that the AAA will probably go the way of the NRA before Christmas unless the smart new deal lawyers find a way to avoid it.

Ear-Marking

The real reason why the house ways and means committee silently spurned President Roosevelt's idea of applying new taxes for reduction of the public debt is that the committee believed this idea also was unconstitutional.

The committee had just passed through the long fight on the social security bill. During that fight members concluded that you cannot ear-mark taxes under the Constitution. They used devious methods to get about this constitutional objection in the security bill. Consequently when Mr. Roosevelt's tax ear-marking recommendation came up during an executive session, the Democrats on the committee by private agreement, paid no attention to it.

This is precisely the same legal point involved in the processing tax cases.

Wortra

It is quite a [illegible] matter, but the scoundrel who tapped Congressman Rankin's telephone wire is known. At least, a fellow congressman friendly to Rankin believes he knows the explanation of that foul deed. He was talking to Mr. Rankin at the time. They both noted a click on the wire and another click. Mr. Rankin's friend suggested to him, more or less humorously, that someone was listening in on them. Apparently Mr. Rankin did not catch the humor of the idea, and subsequently made a charge publicly to that effect.

Later, the friend discovered that his secretary, on a branch line in the outer office, had been picking up the telephone throughout the conversation wondering when it would end because he wanted to use the phone.

Pink Eye

Some top financial men in New York are worried about the report that Chairman Kennedy of the SEC is reaching for his hat and coat.

They have a tip that Brain Truster James Landis will succeed Kennedy and that Brain Truster Ben Cohen will then be appointed to the commission. They fear that this will give the most successful new deal agency pink eye.

Their tip is correct, but their interpretation may prove to be wrong. Mr. Kennedy has not gone yet, and many close friends are working on him to stay. Furthermore, those inside the commission know that in the private sessions Kennedy has been more radical than Landis. That is, Kennedy has wanted to go after more people harder. Kennedy's own personal brain truster on the commission is General Counsel Burns, also an ex-professor from Harvard. He works very closely with Landis.

Of course, the financial people do not know Landis as well as they know Kennedy, but there is no reason to believe that Landis and Cohen would work together, when and if the expected happens.

Preparation

President Roosevelt continues to take it easy at his office. There have been few important callers on his engagement list for the last two weeks. One day recently he left his office at 4:30 p. m., which is a record early quitting time. The answer to that is he is supposed to be working on his coming western speeches at home after hours.

By JAMES McMULLIN

NEW YORK, Aug. 2—The share-the-wealth tax program as drafted by the house committee is a feeble infant and will be razzed as such by both right and left wing critics. It is so inadequate either as a revenue raiser or wealth distributor that many New Yorkers regard it as a joke. But the shrewdest sources don't take it that way at all.

They admit it's innocuous in its present form but the important point from their angle is the precedent it sets. If the proposed levies are enacted President Roosevelt will have established a principle of taxation which is certain to be extended in the future. Succeeding congresses will know where to look first when confronted with budget and relief problems that must be solved by taxation.

Corporations appear to be getting off easy under the house plan in comparison to the President's original proposal. But wise observers predict their day of reckoning is only postponed—not cancelled. There are staggering bills to be paid in the years to come.

Wary

The stock market's handsome performance in recent weeks has aroused a lot of bullish enthusiasm. All over Wall Street you hear it said that prices can't possibly go anywhere but up. An old-time boom appears to be in the making.

But the wisest analysts shake their heads at all this exuberance. Recovery still has some tough obstacles to hurdle and any one of them might throw it for a severe tumble. We are riding jauntily up to a four-million-dollar jump—with the possibility of another one like it beyond. We must face the prospect of a permanent relief problem and the question of raising the general standard of living—both of which the federal government must handle. Either outright inflation or the highest taxes we have ever seen are ahead. The President clearly favors the latter. None of these could exactly be called a guarantee of a sustained bull market. Moreover, if the market should start to slide, there's nothing to cushion its fall.

Also there are European complications to be considered. For some months there has been a steady flow of capital to New York from abroad. If the Dutch guilder should blow off gold—which is better than an even bet—there would be a period of monetary chaos which might knock the market for a loop. There's no immediate likelihood that Europe will pull the plug on us as she did in '29—but there are enough foreign funds here to cause quite a disturbance if they were suddenly shifted. Insiders believe that it's wise to be wary.

Ampel

All the optimism about the wave of new corporate financing to follow the flood of corporate refunding now spreading gets a horse-laugh from investment market experts.

It's true that quite a few companies are interested in renovating their plants since business began to perk up. Machinery manufacturers can attest to that. But such expenditures are being met either out of cash reserves or by bank loans—not by security issues.

The only way a real demand for new capital could develop would be if a lot of corporations decided to expand their plants. And who the heck wants to expand? Existing production facilities are more than ample to take care of all the purchasing power in sight.

Leaders

The eastern railroads just can't make up their minds about the question of reducing passenger fares. Most of them indignantly repudiated the suggestion when the Interstate commerce commission brought it up a couple of weeks ago. Now they've come around to the point where they think maybe it isn't such a bad idea after all. It's quite possible that they'll change their minds back again next week.

The eastern roads have a tendency to drift in circles because they lack leaders. John J. Pelley—ex-president of the New Haven who became head of the Association of American Railways—is well liked—but nobody takes his opinions seriously. Each road is intensely jealous of its competitors and executives spend their time worrying about what the other fellow is going to put over instead of thinking up ideas of their own.

Daniel Willard of Baltimore & Ohio is willing enough to try new ways of getting out of ruts—but nobody will follow him. Other railmen brand him a crank because he doesn't conform. General W. W. Atterbury — ex-president of Pennsylvania—was a forceful personality—but his energy was spent chiefly in objecting to other people's plans rather than in working out his own.

Division

The proposal for a coalition between Republicans and conservative Democrats is definitely warmed up. In fact, the right wing Democrats even coalesce among themselves.

There are no less than three opposition movements to Roosevelt in the conservative branch of his own party. The Jeffersonian Democrats — led by Bainbridge Colby, backed by Hearst—will shoot the works in a pre-convention convention in 1936. They have vague ideas of being recognized as the regular party. The Constitutional Democrats said to be favored by Liberty Leaguers Al Smith and John W. Davis are planning to start their drive with a big party at Faneuil Hall in Boston. Then there's a third group whose tactics will be to build up as many favorite sons as possible to take state delegations away from Roosevelt.

There is practically no liaison between these three. Insiders remark that the division—if it persists—will just about guarantee Roosevelt's renomination.

Sidelights

New York City's relief budget is $[illegible] this year—twice what it was in [illegible]. . . . Next year's estimate is $[illegible] . . . New York learns that the French are getting nervous about supporting Mussolini through thick and thin. . . . They have quite a few Negro subjects of their own in northern Africa who might be upset enough about it to start something.

We Have a Mystery Ray

The American army possesses a "spy" that cannot be caught, convicted or hanged. The new spy is a "mystery ray," permitting the man who controls it to "penetrate darkness, rain and fog for fifty miles," while the ray is invisible to the enemy.

At night this "mystery ray" would enable a commanding officer to see everything happening within fifty miles from his lines or trenches, or his particular spot on the earth's surface, or his ship on the ocean.

You are told that if airplane carriers came within fifty miles of our coast to launch ships against us the ray would reveal them. It might, but that would help little. Airplane carriers would stay much more than fifty miles out, and a few minutes later the planes they launched would strike.

There is no good substitute for airplanes except more airplanes. Nevertheless, the "mystery ray" is interesting and might be useful.

Our 3-Eyed Ancestor

If you do not accept the teaching of Genesis that man was made of clay and woman made from one of man's ribs, you may ask Dr. Henry Fairfield Osborn, president emeritus of the American Museum of Natural History: Who was our original ancestor? What did he look like?

You never could guess the animal that Dr. Osborn says started humanity on its way. It was a fish, which existed 300,000,000 years ago, that may be found in the red sandstone of Scotland. The fish had two round eyes on its forehead, a third eye on top of its head.

Some may not know it, but in addition to our two eyes we have also a "pineal gland" in our brain, supposed to be a "vestigial" remnant of the third eye of that ancestral prehistoric fish.

Dr. Osborn says it is foolish to talk of monkey and baboon ancestors. "We came from three-eyed fish."

Many "Christians" would rather descend from a three-eyed fish than a two-eyed monkey. They see the monkey, its looks offend them; they'll never see, and could not imagine, the three-eyed fish.

Money Loss, Go To Bed

In Berlin, Dr. Schacht, minister of economics, president of the great Reichsbank, warns the government that Hitler's fight against the Jews may have serious economic effects on Germany; in plain English, it may RUIN GERMAN BUSINESS.

The Germans are practical people, with the possible exception of Hitler, who is an Austrian, and anti-Semitism is "bad for business." Germany will lose her enthusiasm for anti-Semitism.

The late Nathan Straus used to say: "If a German loses one of his relatives, he feels badly. If he loses money, he goes to bed sick."

German trade and industry will "go to bed sick" if it persists in its present attitude toward those that promote business and prosperity in every country where Jews are treated fairly.

Long Plane Hop

The big Russian plane, chief pilot, Levanevsky, with two copilots, expects to start for San Francisco from Moscow, traveling over the north pole on the way, in two or three days. The trip is carefully planned. Seventy Russian planes will be stationed along the Soviet coast line, ready to take off if Levanevsky encounters trouble.

The plane will carry six tons of fuel, enough for seventy flying hours, to cover 6,250 miles, and enough food to last three months in case it is forced down on the arctic ice.

In that case, the unused fuel would supply heat. Russia has established forty meteorological stations in the arctic to supply flying information. This country is interested up there. The Standard Oil has brought in one well within the arctic circle, for future use, that might supply fuel to fliers at reasonable prices. Russia could ask Mr. Teagle or Mr. Kingsbury about that.

LOCATION OF MANHATTAN

Manhattan, it has been found, once stood on the banks of the Maumee, a little below Toledo, and had the ambition to be the metropolis of that vicinity, standing at the head of navigation of lake and river, but something gave Toledo the advantage and that city grew and swallowed up Manhattan. It has long since been forgotten. It is interesting to note, however, that the first bank to be established on the soil of what is now Toledo was [illegible] in Manhattan—presumably the bank that issued the note mentioned in the previous article.

The bank was organized March 25, 1835, and reported in 1836 assets of $[illegible]. Manhattan had a newspaper of its own, and it must have been a very much up-to-date publication for then.

Because no act of the legislature incorporating Manhattan has ever been found it is believed the town failed to achieve that distinction.

Complete Solution.

Take care of the pennies and the dollars will take care of themselves. Don't take care of either and the government will take care of you.—Judge.

The art students who have donated their services consist of two groups of the federal emergency school administration art class. One group of 40 Marion students meets with Mr. Kinsler on Monday nights between 6 30 and 9 p m in the Y. M. C. A. The day section is made up of 25 students who attend every week-day morning but Monday from 9 a m till noon

Carl L. Lister, emergency school supervisor, said today that any person could still register for the classes which have been running since Nov. 15 Training is given in fine arts, interior decorating, drawing and sketching, commercial art, linoleum block printing, oil painting, art lettering, show card painting or designing

Registration may be made at Mr Lister's office in the county board of education office in the Leetonia building on West Center street. Students under 16 are welcome, Mr. Lister said, but they will be forced to drop the class at the beginning of the regular school term in September

YANKEES GO "OVER THERE" ONCE MORE

By International News Service

VERDUN—Two groups of A. E. F veterans, totaling 500, are spending July and August at the front fighting the war all over again These ex-soldiers many accompanied by their wives are stopping in the villages they captured and trying to locate their old trenches

The peaceful expedition is led by Leslie Jones former sergeant-major of the 315th infantry of Richmond Their goal is the old Meuse-Argonne front particularly the sector held by the 80th (Blue Ridge) Division.

ROYAL HONOR FOR GARBO PROPOSED

By International News Service

STOCKHOLM—Will Greta Garbo receive a Swedish honor in recognition of her work as a film artist and her propaganda for her country"

This subject is discussed in an article in the "Vecko Journalen" which recalls that Jenny Lind, the famous singer, and other Swedish women internationally known for their work on the stage, had received Swedish decorations.

The writer repaints the scene when King Oscar II himself hung the medal Litteris and Artibus round Jenny Lind's neck.

This honor is the personal gift of the king, who alone decides whether the highest honor in Swedish art circles shall be given

It is pointed out that some 250,000,000 people have seen Greta Garbo in her various films, and in particular that 'Queen Christina,' whatever opinion one may have for its artistic value, constituted excellent propaganda for Sweden and her days of greatness.

YULE PUDDINGS ON WAY TO ARCTIC

By United Press

MONTREAL—The annual Christmas mail and plum puddings are on their way to the Arctic

Carrying a group of Canadian government officials, two doctors who will attempt to solve the riddle of why Eskimos never suffer cancer, and a cargo ranging from lipstick to chicken feed, the sturdy ship Nascopie has departed on the annual voyage to the Far North

Men whose work keeps them exiled in the bleak Arctic wastes, where the mailman comes once a year, await the arrival of the vessel with as much eagerness as children awaiting Santa Claus.

Each year, the Nascopie takes along a number of parcels, wrapped in wax paper and tied with red and green ribbon They contain Christmas gifts and plum puddings sent by relatives to Arctic dwellers

The parcels are dropped off as the Nascopie reaches the various outposts with the instructions

"Do not open until Dec 25."

WOMEN DOWN LAW FOR BELLED CATS

By International News Service

HAMMOND, Ind—Cats of Hammond will go without bells as the result of women's fear of mice

Some time ago members of the Hammond park board sought an ordinance requiring a bell about kitty's neck because the local cats were killing hundreds of song birds

But feline fanciers began a whispering campaign among the women folk, pointing out that belled cats would increase Hammond's mouse population beyond the saturation point, for tinkling kitties then [illegible] prey too much warning.

Because all of the park board members are married men who enjoy a bit of peace and quiet at home, the board now has dropped its bell ordinance

ANTI-AUTOISTS ASK FOR HORSE TROUGH

By The Associated Press

HUTCHINSON, Kan., Aug. 2—Amish farmers and business men have been petitioned city officials to supply a horse trough, a convenience long miss in the downtown district of Hutchinson.

The farmers, whose religion forbids such things as motor cars, lost their last watering trough recently when the Osgood livery, Hutchinson's last stable closed.

TESTS OF SOIL PLANNED HERE

O. S. U. Experts Will Make Free Analysis for Marion County Farmers.

Free tests of Marion county farm soil will be made throughout the county next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday by soil experts from Ohio State university, E. L. Anderson, county agent, announced today.

Five vantage points throughout the county have been selected for the tests, giving farmers in all sections an opportunity to take advantage of the experts' advice.

The university men bring a portable soil laboratory from the university, will test samples of soil for potash, phosphorus and lime. When deficiencies are found, the farmers will be told how to treat the soil to obtain the best results for various crops.

The following schedule has been arranged for the three days:

Tuesday, 9 to 11:30 a. m., William E. Gutnery farm south of LaRue, Burdett Hunter, LaRue High school vocational agriculture teacher in charge; Tuesday 1:30 to 4 p. m., Maurice Clements farm north of DeCliff; Wednesday, 9 to 11:30 a. m., Morral High school, Ralph White, vocational agriculture teacher in charge; Wednesday 1:30 to 4 p. m., Pleasant Township High school, M. E. Schmidt, vocational agriculture teacher in charge; Thursday, 9 to 11:30 a. m., Waldo High school, Levi Lukens, vocational agriculture teacher in charge.

Mr. Anderson has urged that all farmers who will be unable to visit the laboratory when it is in their neighborhood leave samples at the place announced with the information as to whether the soil has been treated with lime and what crops they plan to grow.

READY MADE WIFE

SYNOPSIS

Laurie has consented to marry the wealthy airplane manufacturer Mark Albery because he has declared that otherwise he will ruin the career of the airman, Rex Moore, whom she loves. Rex and Laurie realize that though they have a ... they must separate. ... Laurie has ... Rex ... told him that she ... marry Albery. Rex ... and disappointed with Laurie as we ...

CHAPTER 33

Albery Again

"IT'S by no means safe yet" said Rex Moore to Mark Albery discussing the new fuel a couple of days later "It was just luck that we escaped yesterday I only landed in the nick of time and bang went the engine"

"You wouldn't try it for a longer flight?"

"Not in its present state"

"It's a pity It would make such a sensation I think you had better put off the Pacific flight until we get it right. It would make such a huge difference to us both—almost halve your time"

Rex Moore looked gloomy

"I'm not at all sure that it's ever going to be any good" he said "It's too tricky—anyhow so far You can't begin to tell the speed at which it becomes dangerous Yesterday when the first explosion happened I was making much less than usual owing to the wind What can you do about that?"

"Get Gerard to go on with his experiments my dear fellow"

"You don't want to risk lives Mr Albery?"

"Of course not We must have patience and take every precaution as we always have done And you're not one to talk about risks Moore"

"I should hate to put off the Pacific flight" said the airman ungraciously

"Well think it over Have a drink Moore You must be tired out. I asked you to come up to me so late because I was so anxious to know what you really felt about it not having seen you yesterday"

Albery got up and went to a table under a high window and poured out a whisky and soda for Rex Moore

It was an unusual kind of room this office of his in one of the great buildings of the Grellon Airplane factory It was high up on a glass enclosed corridor that ran along one side of an enormous hangar about 60 feet above the ground One reached it by a spiral staircase

Underneath was nothing but the huge space where the new planes were housed The room was small and furnished as a luxurious office and Albery spent a great deal of his time in it.

He always liked to be on the spot and often sat here reading and working far into the night his restless imaginative brain engaged on that entrancing vision of controlling the entire airways of the world

It was after 11 o'clock Rex Moore had just come back from town where he had spent the day seeing to his passports and the transport of his plane to South America from whence he was this time to start on the Pacific flight He had found a message at the bungalow asking him to go to Albery's office as soon as he came back

He did not want a drink as he had had very little food all day and wanted to be up with the dawn. Anyhow he loathed the idea of drinking with Albery who handed him a tumbler and held up his own

"You haven't congratulated me Moore I want you to drink to our happiness Laurie's and mine We may as we drop all humbug from the beginning You know she has told me the whole truth about your little game If I may say so Moore it was rather stupid and not quite worthy of you

Rex Moore took a gulp at his glass

"I acted like a lunatic and a cad" he said harshly his tanned face dark with disgust and humiliation

"You mustn't be too hard on yourself" Albery retorted smoothly "Where you were wrong was that you misjudged me But I must give you credit for having shielded Laurie when you might have shown her up But my dear boy I'm sure this is one of the affairs in which the less said the better We'll forget all about it Only I want to tell you that you can leave all the details to me If you do exactly as I tell you no more blame shall be attached to you than is absolutely necessary And what does that amount to when people all around you are being divorced every day?"

Rex Moore was trembling with rage and revolt He could hardly keep his hands off that inscrutable smiling face He controlled himself with a mighty effort Laurie had chosen There was nothing to be done

"Another drink Moore" said Albery taking his glass and filling it

This time Rex swallowed it at a gulp He must get away or something would happen

"I'll be getting along" he said "I want to be up early"

"Good night my dear boy" Albery went to the door and opened it All was darkness outside "How careless they've forgotten and switched off the lights downstairs" he said "There were several systems of lighting in the buildings in case of fire I'm staying on for a bit Can you find your way?"

"Yes thanks I'll walk along the corridor and go down the staircase at the other end" The door is always open That was the way he was in the habit of reaching his bungalow from Albery's office It was only a few hundred yards from the door of the big building

Albery went back into his office and shut the door

Rex Moore hesitated for a moment when he found himself in complete darkness but he could find his way along the corridor blindfolded He was terribly tired The scene with Albery had upset him There was a loud buzzing in his head Why had he had those two drinks?

He hurried along He would be glad to get to bed

And suddenly the solid ground gave way under him The floor of the corridor was not there He stepped into a black abyss with the sickening feeling of falling in to space

In the act of falling into space Rex Moore found himself thinking— This means death And in the same flash he saw himself jerking Laurie back by her coat collar when she had nearly fallen out of the train at Liverpool station

And with that memory came sudden power and inspiration

With a desperate effort as of a drowning man he lifted his arms and flung his body sideways and it hit something solid Half stunned but with the strength of mortal necessity he managed to get a grip on a thick plank and with a mighty heave to hoist himself up and to crawl spread-eagled several yards away from the open pit that had awaited him in the darkness of the night

He did not know that he cried out but he must have done so for the door of Albery's office opened in the distance and Albery's figure became visible in a thin beam of light

Moore could see but he could not hear for a few seconds His heart was beating in his ears louder than any engine

"Is anything the matter" Albery shouted "Is that you Moore? Did you call?"

And Albery began to walk along the corridor

Then Rex Moore found his voice

"For God's sake keep back" he cried sharply "There's a hole here I nearly went through Some of the boards are gone"

Albery gave vent to a shocked exclamation

"Are you all right?" Wait a minute Don't move I'll go down and switch on the lights"

The blackness vanished in a glare of strong white light that half blinded the airman for a few moments

Then he slowly stood up and saw what had so nearly happened to him

From the other side of the large gap in the flooring about six foot square Albery approached

Rex Moore had never seen his face showing greater ... before

"Moore what an escape How ever did you manage it in the dark?"

"I don't know I'm sure I suppose" said Rex grimly

They both peered down through the hole into the great hangar the cement floor of which was quite 60 feet below The explanation was simple enough The boards that had been removed formed a trap door through which the workmen reached a narrow platform from where they could inspect the pulleys that lifted the planes up to any desired height if the hangar should be too crowded to hold them all on the floor level

Some workmen had evidently been using it and neglected to replace it

Rex Moore has a disappointment tomorrow

Married Comrades

BY ADELE GARRISON

Dicky Believes Man Was Associate of Leslie

AT DICKY'S query concerning the appearance of the man against whom I had stumbled on my way to the orchard I shook my head

"It was so dark" I said "I couldn't see him at all But my hand caught in a chain on his waistcoat and this came away"

I held out to him the watch fob and bit of chain which I had unwittingly pulled away from the unknown marauder's waistcoat and which he had been so anxious to recover

"They may be the essential clue" he said slipping them in his pocket "I'll take care of them" Then with face suddenly grown stern he put out his hands and took me by the shoulders

"I've a notion to shake the daylights out of you" he said "Will you tell me what you mean by wandering outdoors by yourself on this night of all others? Why that bird might have—"

His voice broke off abruptly and he took me into a rough yet tender embrace

"Don't you dare stick your head out of this house again tonight unless I'm with you" he commanded "Do you hear?"

"Yes my lord" I said with affected meekness and my husband gave me an exasperated shake

"That means you'll do as you darn please" he said

"Indeed it doesn't Dicky" I told him earnestly "I have no desire to meet any more of Jack Leslie's companions in the dark I suppose he was an associate of Leslie's?"

"Probably" Dicky returned slowly

I shivered without realizing it and Dicky's arms went around me again

"Don't get jittery Curtain" he said "If you'll just stay indoors until it's time to start for New Hampshire I'll guarantee you won't have any reason for nervousness But you haven't told me yet why you were strolling around the yard in this pitch black night"

"I was trying to find you" I told him and something in my tone must have amused him for he gave a sudden laugh

"Madge in search of her husband" he gibed "Well! now you've found me what is it you want? I'm holding out the scepter Kathe Spill what's on your mind"

"There isn't much" I said "That stinging of Leslie's awakened Faith"

"Another black mark for the creeping cockroach" Dicky interrupted

"And now that she is awake Katherine wants to start on our journey as soon as we possibly can And Mary wants a chance to telephone Noel So she suggested that as the car was on the opposite side of the house from the tree where Leslie is—"

"Treed" Dicky suggested hopefully

"Seeing" I finished I "ttle ... young his ... with ... Jim might as well be loafing it"

"And the rest of you sallied forth with ... any thought of danger to yourself" Dicky said reproachfully "When will you ever get the idea percolated through your addled brain that you really are quite necessary to the happiness of several people among whom I am ... left?"

"That's a very sweet speech" I said "I love it And I will be ... But tell me what you think of the plan"

"What I think of all Katherine's plans" he retorted "It's a honey Trust Katrina She's the efficient ... list thing ... and these parts when ... aren't functioning Take the ... together ... for good measure and ... efficiency average ... raised to such an nth power that ordinary mortals like me have ... crawl under the bed to keep from having our eyes put out by the bedazzlement"

"If you had listened carefully to me" I said a bit pettishly "I am afraid ... the gibe is a familiar ... you will have heard me say Mary's plan not Katherine's"

"That's right ... I'll" he said "Mary's probably ... to the ... I hope ... as my eyebrows knit at ... I don't mean a thing and I ... like the plan But tell me my brain is clearing ... and I'm remembering all you said why Mary wants to telephone Noel at this time Of all the filbert ... She can't ... it from here That's flat

DEDICATION

SUNDAY AUGUST 4, 1935

THE CHIME TOWER

Sunday, August 4, 1935, Forest Glen Memorial Park will have its commencement. The dedication of the new Chime Tower and the mighty Vox Organo and broadcasting equipment will mark the completion of the major items in the building program announced for the park when it was launched nineteen months ago. Building of a memorial park as a whole is endless. There will always be roads and walks to beautify, flowers and shrubs to plant or change, these things are part of the perpetuation program in which every lot owner participates through the setting aside of a generous part of his purchase money. The completion of the main program will be celebrated Sunday. At the start there was the problem of preparing the park lands, the building of roads, the digging of lakes, then came the erection of the beautiful Cathedral Home and now, the Chime Tower, scientifically built at great expense to be a conveyor of perfect music, the final feature in the picture of Forest Glen Memorial Park as its builders saw it in their plans many months ago. You are invited to come to the park on Sunday at 2:30 o'clock and share in the joy and pride that naturally goes with the beginning of this, the finest of Forest Glen's services to it's community.

Rising up some 40 feet from the highest of the rolling vistas of Forest Glen Park, the $15,000 Chime Tower is visible for a mile or two on all approaches to the park. Its rough, sandstone walls have the ruggedness of old Normandy, the type of architecture it follows. The Chime Tower is equipped to pick up and amplify the music of the $13,500 Vox Organo, a complete electric pipe organ and chimes located in the Cathedral Home, so that it will be carried to all parts of the park and countryside. Organ music, most restful and heavenly of musical expressions, was at one time available only in the larger churches. In our minds, we associated it pleasantly as a soothing and comforting background of our church lives. Recent years have given the organ a prominent position in radio and theater. The association of organ music to large auditoriums that vibrate and echo to its mighty sounds persists in those fields. Now, at Forest Glen Memorial Park, the glories of lovely organ music will come to you in a new setting, in a refreshing and enchanting manner. Organ music from the Cathedral Home, amplified through the Chime Tower, coming on the cool stir of a twilight breeze, while you rest and meditate in surroundings where Nature's own beauty has been aided by every craft at man's disposal will surely make us all but love it more.

Miss Dorothy Romoser of Marion, who has appeared over the radio from stations WOWO of Ft. Wayne, Indiana, WAIU of Columbus and WLW of Cincinnati, has been appointed organist of the park and will preside at the beautiful console of Vox Organo located in the main parlor of the Cathedral Home. Her concert will feature the dedication program scheduled to start promptly at 2:30 o'clock. A twilight concert is planned for 7 to 9 p. m. and for each evening for an extended period. Formal dedication of the equipment will be made in an address by Mr. Roy Halton of Ann Arbor, Michigan, secretary of National Memorial Park Association. Full details of the program are given elsewhere in this announcement. Visitors to the park for the dedication will find it at its best. A favorable growing season has brought every tree, shrub and flower into the full glory of beauty. Reasonable restrictions will be in order during the dedication program because of the large crowd. On this occasion as in all Forest Glen activities the public is cordially invited to attend and avail themselves of every attractive feature that this fine memorial park offers.

CHARACTER BARED BY USE OF WORDS

Invented Vocabulary and Other Abuses Indicate Traits, Expert Says.

By United Press

CINCINNATI, O., July—Clothes may make the man but for a true insight into a man's character study his use of words, according to Dr. E. C. Cline, principal of Morton Senior school, Richmond, Ind., and one of the visiting members of the University of Cincinnati summer session faculty.

Dr. Cline spoke [illegible] on "Humor in the [illegible]."

Your Health

BY DR. R. S. COPELAND

Hay Fever.

HAY FEVER is prompted by a peculiar sensitiveness which some persons have for the pollen of grasses or other plant life. Some are susceptible to the pollen of more than one particular plant. Those that most commonly produce attacks of hay fever come from timothy grass, wild rye, oats and foxtail. In some instances the cause of the sensitiveness can be traced to a protein substance found in wearing apparel, horse apparel, house furnishings or even in the food.

The victim complains of itching and congestion of the eyes, running of the nose and repeated attacks of sneezing. The attack sometimes resembles asthma, the sufferer having great difficulty in breathing. At times the symptoms are so severe that it may be necessary to remain in bed. Often the victim of hay fever is also subject to attacks of real asthma.

It is believed that the tendency to many of these hyper-sensitive conditions is an inherited or family trait. This may be true, not only of hay fever, but also of bronchial asthma, chronic coryza and forms of skin disease like eczema.

To prevent hay fever all possible sources of irritation should be avoided. This is difficult because the pollen may be carried to the victim by gusts of wind even though he is distant from the offending plant.

Perhaps many of my readers are unaware of the modern methods used in treating or preventing hay fever. It is not successful in all cases and the treatment is a long-drawn-out procedure. But relief is obtained in many instances.

I refer to what is called the "injection method" of treatment. It consists of injecting under the skin a solution of the pollen in very dilute doses. The injections are given until there is developed an "immunity" or protection against the irritating substance. Relief is not immediate and it is necessary to continue with the injections. It is advisable that these treatments be repeated every year, until complete protection is obtained.

Before the injections are given it is necessary to determine what particular substance is causing the irritation. This is done by means of "sensitivity tests." Sensitivity to the offending substance is indicated by a characteristic rash, called the "skin reaction." The test consists of receiving injections of various pollen extracts. In this way it is possible to determine whether or not the sufferer is susceptible to one or to several of the pollens.

In addition to this vaccine treatment, it is advisable to correct all physical defects and to make every effort to improve the general health. Nasal deformities, such as deviated septum, nasal sinusitis, polyps, and other abnormalities serve to increase the susceptibility to attacks of hay fever. When these defects are corrected the resistance against infection is increased.

Answers to Health Queries

Mrs. C.W.M. Q.—How can hardening of the arteries be detected? What are some of the symptoms?

A.—A physical examination will determine whether or not this condition is present. For further particulars restate your question and send a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

B.G. Q.—What do you advise for gas on the stomach?

A.—This may be due to a number of different causes. For full particulars restate your question and send a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Mrs. A.J.S. Q.—What is the proper treatment for bronchitis?

A.—It is first most essential to make every effort to build up the general health. For full particulars restate your question and send a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

I.P.Q. Q.—What should a woman aged 55, 5 feet 1 inch tall weight, also a boy of 17, 5 feet 7 inches tall?

A.—They should weigh respectively about 135 and 136 pounds. This is the average weight for people of this age and height as determined by examination of a large number of persons. A few pounds above or below the average is a matter of little or no significance.

The Stars Say--

For Saturday, Aug. 3

ADVERSE PLANETARY conditions seem to rule this day, according to both the lunar and mutual aspects. With the ever-militant Mars and the revolutionary Uranus in conflicting positions, it would be wise to curb all tendencies to precipitate rash and impetuous moves as these spell disaster and loss.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of probable turmoil, perplexity and a sudden precipitation of events of a fiery or threatening nature. Strange events and personalities complicate affairs, but be careful with all writings, with speech, and keep from arguments, strife and recklessness.

A child born on this day may be disposed to be rash, wayward, tempestuous and impulsive, may incite enmity, scandal and litigation. It may have some strange or original talents.

KENTON STANDPIPE PROPOSAL STUDIED

KENTON, Aug. 2—Civic clubs, after turning down a previous proposition for erection of a water standpipe in Kenton, today appointed committees to determine feasibility of such a project as a WPA job. Sponsors say that erection of a standpipe will mean larger reserve water supply, more uniform pressure and lower insurance rates. The cost was estimated at $15,000 by City Engineer Paul R. Strong.

Members of the civic committee are Neil Ahlefeld, chairman; Boyd W. Fair, G. R. Lichty, J. M. McLaughlin, John Ryan and W. C. Bopp.
